A protracted and warm debate followed in which the Attorney-General and some members of the legislature took the ground that its body would get rid of one member of a ministry only by passing a vote of want of confidence in the whole cabinet. The vote on Brown's amendment resulted in the tie of 24 to phia, 9. 24, the elective members, including the President, voting. The Cabinet, how-ver, promptly resigned. During the proceedings of the Legisla-ture on June 9, Minister Ashford, rising to a question of privilege, stated that he wished to answer the charges made against him by the Minister of the Interior of connivance with the insurrection of last April. He claimed that the insurrection of 1887 was planned by W. R. Wilcox and was only a continuance of the scheme of the ministers to replace the king on the throne by his sister, the Princess Kili-koani, and that the ministry was to blame for that insurrection Notwithstanding the rumors of impending trouble, there was not even cent ammunition available for ordinary use. If it had not been possible to ob ten thousand rounds from United States steamer Adams, then in the harbor, the insurrection would have been successful. He claimed that when it was voted to put the proposed treaty with the United States through the King did not know all the facts of treaty. The clause relating to the landing of troops on Hawaiian soil was an-nexed to the draft of the treaty and when the draft was left with the King the annexed clause, which he claimed was to have been removed. remained through oversight affixed to

George F. Coats, Republican, is a native of lowa. At the breaking out of the war he was a student at the Wesleyan University in Mount Pleasant, enlisted in the First Iowa Cavalry and remained with his regiment until mustered out of the service. He was engaged in business at Mount Pleasant until 1877, when he removed to Los Angeles, Cal. In 1879 he removed to Phonix, Ariz, and engaged in the wholesale and retail fruit business. Mr. Coats has been Mayor of Phoenix twice, has served as a member of the Board of Capital Commissioners and Department Commander G. A. R. William Zeckendorf was born June 5, 1822 in the village of Hemmendorf, formerly Kingdom of Hanover, Germany, received a thorough education, speaks English, German, and Spanish fluently, and is familiar with French and Hebrew. In 1856 he left Hanover to join his brothers, who were then engaged in mercantile pursuits in New Mexico. He crossed the plains from Kansas City with a mule team, and after a ninety days' journey arrived in Santa Fe. After being engaged in business there and at Albuquerque intil 1802 he was appointed Lleutenagin in a New Mexican regiment and served under General Cauby, U. S. A. He was at the battle of Valverde, N. M., and in several engagements near Fort Graig and was captured by Confederate forces at a skirmish near Socorro, and exchanged about a year afterwards. He then resumed business in Albuquerque.

In 1886 he removed to Tucson and engaged in mercantile pursuits. He has been interested largely in mining and agriculture. In the earlier days of Arizona he had several encounters with the Apaches and was successful and fortunate enough to aid in increasing the record of good Indians. As a member of the Arizona Legislative Council in 1873 he strongly advocated and succeeded in establishing compulsory education in the public schools of the Territory. employe of the Front-street Cable company, met a terrible death this morning at the power-house. Brannan was employed as night watchman and repairer. After oiling the great sheave-wheel, around which the cable passes, he neglected to replace the planks covering the wheel and a few moments after, failing to notice the open place at the sheave, stepped into it. The arms of the wheel caught his legs and in an instant he was drawn between the heavy timbers forming the framework, and his life was crushed out. The machinery was stopped immediately and Brannan's body was found rolled up like a ball and crushed into a pulp. He was married and 33
